Managing Projects: Individual Progress and Team Success

In many actuarial fields, project management skills are no longer simply nice-to-have, but are a critical component of actuarial career development. Whether it's leading cross-functional teams, managing regulatory changes or driving forward innovation, actuaries with strong project management capabilities are better equipped to deliver value and adapt to the dynamic landscape of the industry.

Speaking of innovative drivers: We are highly excited to present to you the first episode of our new video-series "actupool insights", which will feature expert interviews and coaching with intriguing insights into work-life topics and actuarial career development. For our first episode we welcomed Antonia Schiller, Voice UX Designerin & PMO Conversational AI at ERGO Group, to the actupool video studio. As a project manager, Antonia is responsible for the rollout of the company-owned Generative Large Language Model ERGO GPT!

New Video Series: actupool Insights With ... Antonia Schiller, AI-Expert at ERGO Group

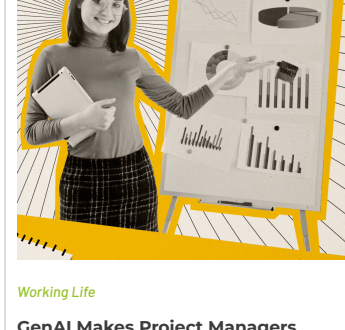

In the first episode of the video series "actupool insights", we interviewed Antonia Schiller from ERGO, who was largely responsible for the rollout of the generative AI-Model ERGO GPT. We spoke to her about LLM and the development of this project. In addition, Henning Wergen, Managing Director of the German Actuarial Association (DAV) and member of the IAA's Artificial Intelligence Task Force, gives insights into the association's AI focus group.

Project Management in the Actuarial Skillset - Interview with Rebecca von der Heide

In addition to their core responsibilities, actuaries are increasingly taking on strategic and organisational roles. One critical skill is project management, particularly in actuarial consultancy. Rebecca von der Heide, Actuary and Manager at Cominia Actuarial Services GmbH, has qualified as a Project Manager Professional. In our interview she shared her experiences on the training while working full-time and on the effects on her professional duties.

Number of the Month

25 Million

The global economy will need 25 million new project professionals by 2030, says the Project Management Institute. To close this talent gap, 2.3 million people will need to enter project management-oriented employment (PMOE) every year just to keep up with demand – this includes project managers and other changemakers.
